The Daily Reader

Reading through the Bible together in 2012

Explanation Of The Old Testament

You will notice that the Old Testament in this plan does not follow the same order as our English Bibles. We will cover the same 39 books during the year, but the order is different! We are using the Hebrew order (the order Jesus would have used). The Hebrew order organises the books in three sections. First we will begin with the five books of Moses. Second we will move through the "Former" and "Latter Prophets". This will feel like history books, followed by the prophets. Third we will enjoy the "Writings." There are a couple of reasons we have set it out in this different way. For those who have read through the Bible before, this will have a fresh feel to it. For all of us it will mean we enjoy benefits like not having to read the two books of Chronicles right after the books of Samuel and Kings (this can feel a bit repetitive in the English order.)

Explanation Of The New Testament

You will also soon notice that the New Testament is not in English Bible order. The arrangement we will follow allows us to separate the gospels from each other. After each gospel we will read epistles that have some connection to it. Again, hopefully this approach will be fresh, motivating and helpful. So we'll begin with Matthew (the more Jewish gospel) and follow it with Hebrews and James (two epistles with a very "Jewish Christian" feel!) Then Mark will be followed by the letters of Peter (who was probably behind Mark's gospel) and Jude (which is often connected with 2 Peter). Luke will come next, along with his second work, Acts. Then, naturally, Paul's epistles will follow Acts which tells so much of his story. Finally John's gospel will be followed by his three other epistles and his last book of all, Revelation!
